examined by the judges.

SECOND DAY.

Thursday, Oct. 14th.—Grand proce-sion of horses at 9 o'clock, a. m. General examination by the Judges, etc. Wagons, carriages, and farm implements examined by the judges this day also.

THIRD DAY.

Friday, Oct. 15th.—This day the trotting match, plowing match, examination of articles in floral hall, etc., etc., will take place.

Prices of Admission.

Each Member of the Society will be furnished, on the payment of the annual fee of one dollar, with a certificate of membership. This certificate presented to the Secretary, will secure the holder to admission tickets for his family, during the fair provided there is not more than five, over the age of ten years.

VISITORS ON FOOT.

Will be furnished with tickets of admission, at the office, for ten cents each.— These tickets must be delivered to the gate keeper as you pass in.

VISITORS ON HORSEBACK.

In addition to their ten cent ticket, they will have to purchase a carriage ticket at fifteen cents, both of which must be delivered to the gate keeper as you pass in.

VISITORS IN A ONE HORSE CAR- RIAGE.

will have to purchase a carriage ticket at twenty five cents, and deliver it to the gate keeper, as you pass in.

VISITORS IN TWO HORSE CAR- RIAGE.

In addition to their single admission ticket, will have to purchase a carriage ticket, at thirty cents, and deliver it to the gate keeper as you pass in.

REGULATIONS.

Any article offered for a premium must be owned by the person offering it or some of his family who is under twenty-one years of age.

All articles, whether made within the year or previously, and whether heretofore had a premium awarded or not, are eligible to compete for premiums.

Whether there be much, little, or no competition, premiums will be awarded—provided the regulations of the Society are adhered to, and the articles are meritorious.

Any person the owner of an article exhibited to compete for premiums, who shall make use of any means to bias the awarding committee in making up their judgment, shall forfeit their premiums.— The various awarding committees are respectfully solicited to be present in due time, that the Board may not be under the necessity of filling vacancies.

There will be an ample enclosure of ground, with a close board fence eight feet high; suitable buildings will also be erected. All stock must be exhibited within the enclosure.

Signs will be placed over the offices to designate them.

Before entering the enclosure, first go to the Treasurer's Office, pay the annual fee, one dollar, if you have not previously done so, you will receive from the Treasurer a membership card, which you will retain, and which will give you free access to the fair grounds at all times during the Fair.
Immediately after entering the enclosure go to the Clerk's Office, show him your "Membership card," and he will register any animal or article you may desire to enter, giving you a card to correspond with his books, which you must attach to the animal or article you wish to exhibit.

A committee will direct you as to the location and arrangement of anything you may have for exhibition.

The orders on the Treasury for premiums will be ready for delivery twenty days after the Fair. They will pay all orders on presentation.

For further particulars see "Notice to Visitors," which will be posted up in divers places on the Fair Grounds.

The Board of managers will take every precaution in their power for the safety of stock and articles for exhibition, but will not be responsible for any loss or damage that may occur.

Intoxicating drinks of all kinds are strictly prohibited, not only on Fair the Grounds but on the common landing there to.

No person will be permitted to engage in any kind of business, traffic or exhibition on the Fair Grounds without a written permit from the Secretary.

The Printer.

This printer is the Adjunct of Thought, and this explains the mysteries of the wonderful word that can kindle a hope as no song can—that word "we," with a hand-in-hand warmth in it, for the Author and the Printer are Engineers together. Engineers indeed! When the little Conies bombed Udis at the distance of five miles, it was deemed the very triumph of engineering. But what is that paltry range to this, whereby they bombard the age yet to be!

There at the case he stands and marshals into line the forces armed for truth, clothed in immortality and English. And what can be more noble than an equipment of a thought in sterling Saxon—Saxon with the ring of spear on shield therein, and that communion into it when we are dead, to move gradually on to the last eternity of recorded time! This is to win a victory from death, for this had no dying in it.

The printer is called a laborer, and the office he performs is toil. Oh, it is not work, but a sublime rite he is performing, when he thus "lights" the engine that is to fling a world truth in grander curve than Minerva as before described—fling it into the bosom of an age unborn. He throws off his coat indeed; but he would wonder the rather, that he does not put his shoes from off his feet, for the place where he stands is holy ground.

A little song was uttered somewhere long ago; it wandered through the twiglight feebly than a star; it died upon the ear. But the printer takes it up where it was lying there in the silence like a wounded bird, and equips it anew with wings, and he sends it forth from the Ark that had preserved it, and it flies on into the future with the olive branch of peace; and around the world with melody, like the dawning of a spring morning.—Byard Taylor.

Holloway's Pills.

The famous pills of an ignorant man may become facts in an enlightened one, through the instrumentality of science. Eastern romance introduces magic as the agent of a thousand cures; and sober fact, in the nineteenth century, points us to countless diseases all curable with absolute certainty by HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.

In most fearful cases of chronic liver complaint, dyspepsia, physical prostration, and life consuming diarrhoea, we find the health of the sufferers restored with wonderful celerity by this world-famed remedy.
Such is the magic of science.

The Administration.

Forney's Press says: "We declare it now as our solemn opinion, that the example of the General Administration in Illinois, if carried out, will so utterly demoralize the party in every State of the Union as to render it a contempt, unless by some immediate action such a protest is made against this attempt to destroy it, as will forever put a stop to this arrogant and monstrous interference.

For we do not believe that the President of the United States is a monarch.— We do not believe that we are his slaves.
He was not elected to make and unmake creeds. The principle which elected him is greater than himself. If he, and those who speak for him, suppose that they can intimidate the Democratic masses by this extraordinary course in Illinois, we say, with every possible respect for his character and his position, they are shamefully mistaken. Admonish them to pause.

We commend the above to the attention of those gentlemen who are invited to indorse the Buchanan resolution of the State Convention by voting the office holders' ticket. There was no resolution proposed against the President's interference with the local election of Illinois. Buchanan, not only don't want the people of the territories to regulate their own affairs in their own way, but he don't want the people of the States to regulate their affairs without the interference of his "paid millions."

SOUTH CAROLINA.—The South Carolin- ian, the organ of the Democracy of the Palmetto State, published at Columbia, says the following interrogatories have been submitted to the candidates for the Leg- islature:

1. Are you in favor of the reopening of the African Slave Trade?

2. If called upon to vote for Senator to represent this State in the United States Senate, would you support a National or a State Rights Democrat?

3. Are you in favor of our State being represented in National Convention for nominating candidates for the Presidency?

We suppose when South Carolina indoctrinates the South with a love for the opening of the African Slave Trade, and the South press it upon Congress, and threaten to go out of the Union unless Congress accedes to their demands, that there will be 4th of July orators in the North who will recommend an acquiescence or a compromise, just to save the Union.

A Sketch for the Children.

It was Christmas Eve, and the splendid toy store on Broadway, in which I passed for a moment, was crowded with gorgeous gifts and busy purchasers. Suddenly the door opened, and a magnificently dressed lady swept in, leading a little boy of about five years by the hand. Close behind followed another lady, whose neat garments appeared almost plain beside the plumes and sables of the first comer. There was almost as much difference visible between the ruddy-cheeked boy who accompanied her, and the spoiled child of fashion who walked before.

The young aristocrat looked languidly around on the brilliant display of toys, and all his mother's questions failed to elicit a decided expression of preference for one or the other. He was evidently sated with childish amusements. At length a pretty little carriage, completely fitted out with footman, driver and horses and mechanically arranged so that on being "wound up" it would travel over the floor by itself, attracted his eyes.

"What is the price of this?" inquired the lady of the sales.

"Five dollars, ma'am," was the shop-man's reply.

The lady drew out her jeweled purse, and laid a gold piece on the counter, delighted that her child was at length pleased. Meanwhile the other little boy, after much joyous deliberation, selected a strong, though small wooden wagon, painted a bright blue, for which his mother paid fifty cents, and the two parties passed out almost together.

On the pavement not far from the poor old beggar, whose hollow eyes and sunken cheeks told of real want as he shuddered in the bleak wind. The wailing lady brushing past to her carriage, frowned at his outstretched hand.

"I have nothing to spare for charity," she said, "the times are too hard for that."

The other lady, passing from the store, stopped with a pitying look, and laid in his withered hand a broad silver piece, which brought a flush of gratitude to his pale cheek. She joined the busy throng which perpetually flows down Broadway, and I went my way.

Children, think of the two do you think was the richest?—Life Illustrated.

Brigham Young's Opinion of Bu- chanan.

The correspondent of the Times gives the following extract from a sermon of Brigham Young to the Saints, in the Bowery, at Provo, on the 27th:

"What are the present situation of affairs? For us the clouds seem to be breaking. Probably many of you have already learned that General Johnston passed through Great Salt Lake City, with his command under the strictest discipline.— Not a house, fence or sidewalk has been infringed upon by any of his command.

"We told Commissioners Powell and McCulloch that we believed President Buchanan would fulfill his words when his own interest prompted him to do so.

"Here the Prophet became excited and burst into a tirade against President Buchanan, calling him a driving old dotard, whose own party alone he should have been President twenty five years ago, when he had a little sense about him, if ever.—
But the Saints did not court
